The Board of Australian communications software specialist MNF Group (ASX: MNF) is pleased to announce it has appointed David Stewart as an independent non-executive director.

David is an experienced CEO and successful entrepreneur with more than 30 years in management and business leadership roles. David founded Banksia Technology Pty Limited in 1988 and successfully managed the company as a fast growing and highly profitable business. In 1996 he instigated the successful takeovers of a number of his competitors, including NetComm Limited, which was completed in November 1997. David assumed the role of Managing Director of the merged entity and remained at the helm of the company until his retirement in December 2016. In June 2016 David was recognised for his significant and valuable contribution to the Australian communications industry with the presentation of the Communications Ambassador 2016 award. The Australian Communications Ambassador award is the highest honour presented by ACOMMS Communications Alliance and CommsDay each year.

Since retiring, David began working with a number of tech startups in an advising and investing capacity. He was announced as Chairman for Pycom on July 01, 2017 and a Director of Beam Communications (formerly known as World Reach Limited) on November 9, 2017, following investments in both. The start of 2018 saw David join the board of Lockbox Technologies.
